General Instructions
1 As a general rule, you are expected at class times to be either in your normal class or in an exam. (See points 2 and 3 for exceptions.)
2 If an exam starts 5 or 10 minutes after the start of the period you should go to the exam, not to the class.
3 If an exam ends 5 or 10 minutes before the end of a period, you are not required to go to the class.
4 You will normally be expected to stay in each exam until the end. However, if you have clearly finished and checked your work, the supervising staff may send you back to class when the period bell goes.
5 SQA rules on conduct during the exams will apply. In particular, all talking must stop when you enter the hall.
